AGRICULTURAL COL- LEGE ONLY IN NAME

Oregon's Big School for Farmers Teaches Everything But How to Farm.

While the Oregon Agricultural College has an enrollment larger than any other college in Oregon or Washington and only exceeded by Stanford University and the State University of the California colleges and it is a splendid success in many ways, yet it falls far short of being an agricultural college, for too much of its work has no bearing whatever on the science of agriculture. The department known as the experiment station, is all that is really doing work that is effective in advancing the agricultural interests of Oregon.
This department has Dr. James Withycombe at the head of it. The Doctor is a practical farmer and not a theoretical college man and the splendid work in agricultural research and demonstration that he and his staff of instructors are doing is having a most helpful influence in raising the standard of agriculture in Oregon and making it a profitable vocation to the farmers instead of merely a means of gaining a bare living as has been too much the case with the average Oregon farmer.

On the need of a change in the methods of conducting the State Agricultural College the Rural Spirit of Portland, has the following sensible argument:

"The announcement of Dr. Thos.
M. Gatch, president of the Oregon Agricultural College, that it is his intention to retire at the end of the coming year brings up afresh the subject of the sphere of an agricultural college. After 10 years of splendid service at the head of this institution Dr. Gatch retires with the good will and hearty sympathy of the whole faculty, who at their last meeting adopted resolutions expressing this fact in words highly complimentary to the aged, but able educator, and it is with the same feeling of deference and respect for his splendid service and ability that we say that his resignation is coming none too soon for the good of the institution. A few more might be accepted on the same hypothesis. In fact a general reorganization might be effected to the ultimate good of the agricultural interests of our great state which we think are entitled to an agricultural college in fact as well as in name.
President Gatch is an able educator, but he is not an agriculturist—makes no pretension of being one—his tastes and interests run in other lines and with such a man at the head of the institution and with others of similar inclinations filling most of the chairs is it to be wondered at that the agricultural department is the weakest of all the departments maintained in the school? Is it any wonder that the boys who enter that department are dubbed as 'Rubes' and 'Hayseeds' and on account of that influence are often deterred from taking an agricultural course and sometimes influenced to change to some other after they have chosen it? Agricultural college fordsforth? Either the name or the nature should be changed. As we said in an editorial on this subject some weeks ago we believe 'the trend for the last few years has been toward the specific purpose declared in the name,' but it is entirely too slow.
At the present rate it would take a thousand years to reach the point and we believe now is a good time to install a more rapid pace in that direction. Let much of the work now done there be left to the state university.
Put a man at the head of the institution who is in the prime of life, an agriculturist in theory and practice, whose heart is in the work and whose influence will lend dignity and character to that department above all others. In fact let there be no departments except those pertaining to agriculture in its various phases and let each department be provided with specialists who are wide-awake, progressive and up-to-date and able to enthuse their students and inspire interest and pride in the work for which they are fitting themselves.
Let us have an agricultural college that will be a pride to the state and the envy of others; one that will attract to its walls the brightest young men and women of our state who will there fit themselves to return to the farm and help dignify the profession of the farmer until it shall stand where it belongs on a par with all others."

Another Railroad for Eastern Oregon.
Of the progress of the survey for the Southern Pacific branch line from Natron, a station on that Company's line in Lane county, into Southeastern Oregon, the Klamath Falls Republican tells the following:
"The surveyors of the Natron-Klamath Falls branch of the Southern Pacific railroad are now working this side of Naylor and will be in Klamath Falls some time next week. The engineers in charge of the work visited Klamath Falls this week, but as it is a portion of their work to keep mum, and they believe in earning their money, no information regarding the real significance of the survey being made was obtainable." ful." Sold by National Drug Co.,

Creameries Increase Farmers Earnings.
A sample of the way creameries in Oregon prosper, is given in the following item from the Western Oregon, published at Cottage Grove, Lane county, which sets forth the growth of the Cottage Grove creamery: "As an illustration of the growth of the business, comparison is made of the creamery's first month of operation with that of June this year. In August, 1905, the first month of operation, the creamery had 15 patrons.
A steady increase in patronage has been made from month to month, up to 100 in June this year. The output for the month of August, 1905, was 292 pounds of butter. The output for June, 1906, was 13,000 pounds of butter and 200 gallons of ice cream."

Was in Poor Health for Years.
Ira W. Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa., writes: "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure, and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." Refuse

INEXPENSIVE METHOD OF IRRIGATING LAND

Uses a Big Centrifugal Pump and Gasoline Engine to 'Lift' Water From Creek.

Of the success of a Jackson county farmer in irrigation by a pumping plant the Medford Tribune has the following:
"J. G. Gore is completing a plant that will enable him to utilize the waters of Bear creek in irrigating his orchard two miles south of town.
He has installed a four inch Byron Jackson centrifugal pump that draws water with a six inch suction, and discharges six inches of water to a height of 26 feet. This empties into a flume and gives sufficient fall to ensure a rapid flow of water making it possible to put the water on the land very quickly. The flume has a 2x8 bottom and 1x10 side giving an 8x8 flume. This furnishes a head of water of 400 inches per minute, sufficient quantity to cover the entire orchard. The original plan provided for the use of the pipe but being unable to obtain the necessary piping the flume is used as a temporary expedient. Mr. Gore has an excellent setting of both apples and pears and expects the moisture to bring the fruit to a high state of development.
The cost of the plant is in the neighborhood of $700 and power is furnished by a gasoline engine."

Land Thieves ARE CONVICTED
In the federal court at Portland, Saturday, Martin G. Hoge, city attorney of Medford, who was found guilty in conjunction with Charles Nickell, editor of the Medford Southern Oregonian and Democratic Times, last Thursday night under an indictment charging him with conspiracy to defraud the government out of title to its public lands, and Henry W.
Miller and Frank E. Kincart both of whom had pleaded guilty to the same offense, were sentenced. The two latter were each given one year's imprisonment at hard labor on McNeill's Island, while Hoge, on account of his physical condition and the fact that Government Prosecutor Heney interceded for leniency, was given a much lighter sentence, a fine of $500 and four months' imprisonment in the Multnomah county jail being the extent of his punishment. Nickell had already obtained a stay of execution until Monday morning, August 6, hence no action was taken in his case at Saturday's proceedings.

In pronouncing sentence upon the trio of culprits Judge Hunt exercised every consideration for the circumstances of their respective cases. He commended both Miller and Kincart for their plea of guilty, and admonished them to take their punishment to heart, so that when they emerged from the government prison they would be in a position to heed the lessons of the past.

The court advised Hoge to return to Medford after serving his sentence and endeavor to live down his offense.
He was returned to the county jail after sentence had been imposed, and commenced serving time at once, while Miller and Kincart were taken to McNeill's Island.

Marie Ware McKinley, through Lew Tartley, her lawyer entered a plea of not guilty to an indictment charging her, State Senator Mays and others with conspiracy to defraud the government.

Special Prosecutor Francis J. Heney asked for and was given an order forfeiting Horace G. McKinley's bond in the case in which he was convicted and in another case still pending. Mr.
Heney asked that bench warrants be issued for his arrest. McKinley's bondsmen, who will have to stand the penalty of his non-appearance, are Eugene Blazier and Jack Grant, both of Portland. McKinley is believed by government officials to be in China.
Efforts are being made to bring him back.

Mr. Heney also took an order for a severance in the case wherein Hermann, Williamson, F. P. Mays, Willard N. Jones and George Sorenson are jointly indicted for conspiracy. The severance affects Hermann and Wil-lamson, and the case against them will go over for the term.
